THE SHEET

Seven frames

I print fewer pictures than I take. These seven stayed. The rest of each roll is still in the file.

THE ORDER

Four steps, then the prints

The count is the schedule. Contacts in ten days. Finished prints in three weeks.

01

Scout the place

One visit, and no camera commitment. We walk the slips or the rooms and decide whether the light is worth two days.

02

Two days on site

Sheet film, available light, no assistant. I work the hours the place is actually in use.

03

Mark the sheet

Ten days later you receive the contact sheet and mark the frames you want held.

04

Twelve prints

Three weeks after that: fiber prints, signed, boxed. Twelve from the two days.

RUSH · DECLINED

What a series costs

LINE	WHAT YOU RECEIVE	FEE, USD
Editorial day	One publication. Twelve selects, for the web and one print run.	1,800
Place archive	Two days on site. Twelve finished fiber prints. Private use by one household.	6,400
Print, 11×14	A signed fiber print from a frame already on the sheet.	420

Travel past the coast range is a separate day. Use beyond the line above is quoted before the camera comes out.

THE PRINTER

Places still in use

I photograph slips, galleys, weather huts, and rooms with the lights left as found. The work is slow because the light is.

Prints are made on fiber, from 4×5 sheet film, in a room above a chandlery in Grayharbor. Commissions come from editors and from people who want a record of one place.
